CREATE BEAUTY AND HEATHY
WITH COLOR

用色彩实现美丽与健康

The Colors of Each Day and Each Year
EVERYDAY OF COLOR

From the rise of the sun to its set, the brightness of the light and the color temperature of the sunlight change continuously. These ever-changing conditions profoundly influence every living being on Earth at every moment.

Natural lighting conditions exert a profound influence on the lifestyles, daily habits, and even the cultural dimensions of every nation. Compared to countries characterized by abundant rainfall and mist, those with distinct seasonal variations tend to possess more distinctive cultures and have achieved more remarkable advancements in the realm of art.

A Gift from Nature
THE GIFT OF NATURE

Nature is the source of color; throughout the four seasons, it creates an endless array of beautiful hues—whether it be the blossoming flowers of spring, the vibrant foliage of autumn, or the magnificent sunrises and sunsets—all of which showcase the infinite richness of natural colors. Color is an indispensable element of nature, imbuing all living things with vitality and aesthetic appeal. Natural extracts derived from plants are frequently utilized in the beauty industry, as their abundant pigments and nutrients provide essential care and nourishment for the skin.

Embrace nature; it can uplift your soul and beautify your life!

Color Correction

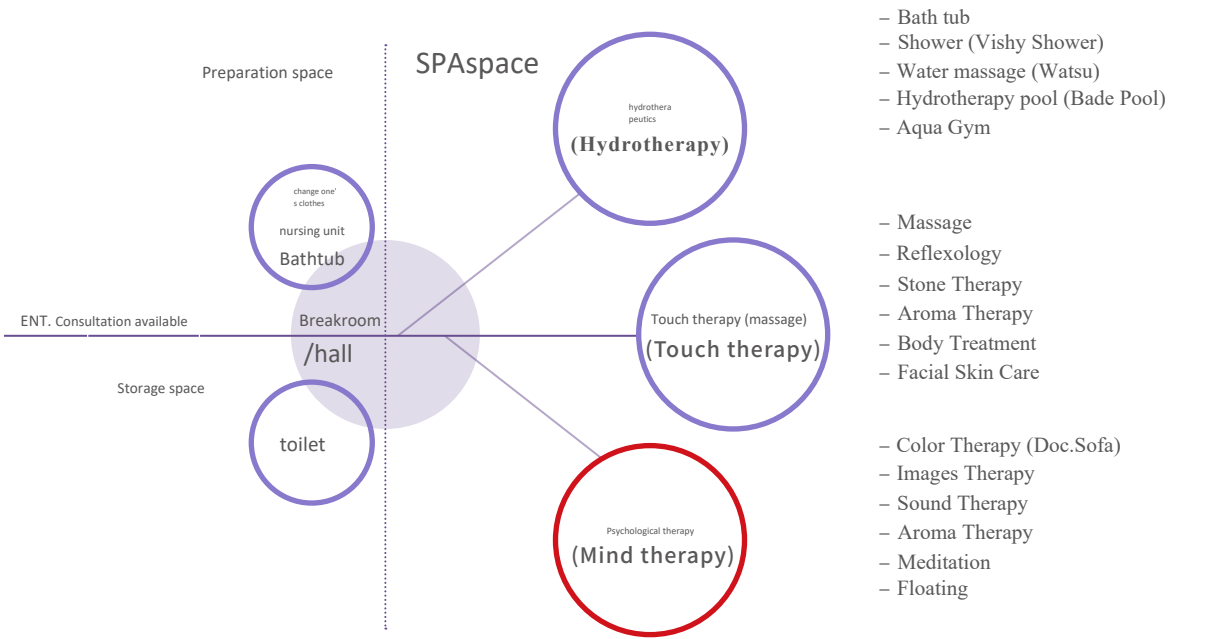

COLOR THERAPY

Through the Color and Mental Health Assessment, this study examines the psychological and physiological responses elicited by various colors, as well as the cultural influences on color perception. Colors possess the capacity to evoke specific emotions and produce pronounced psychological effects. Physiologically, the human eye identifies colors by stimulating specialized cells within the eye that are sensitive to light of different wavelengths. The use of color can help restore the balance lost in both mental and physical well-being.

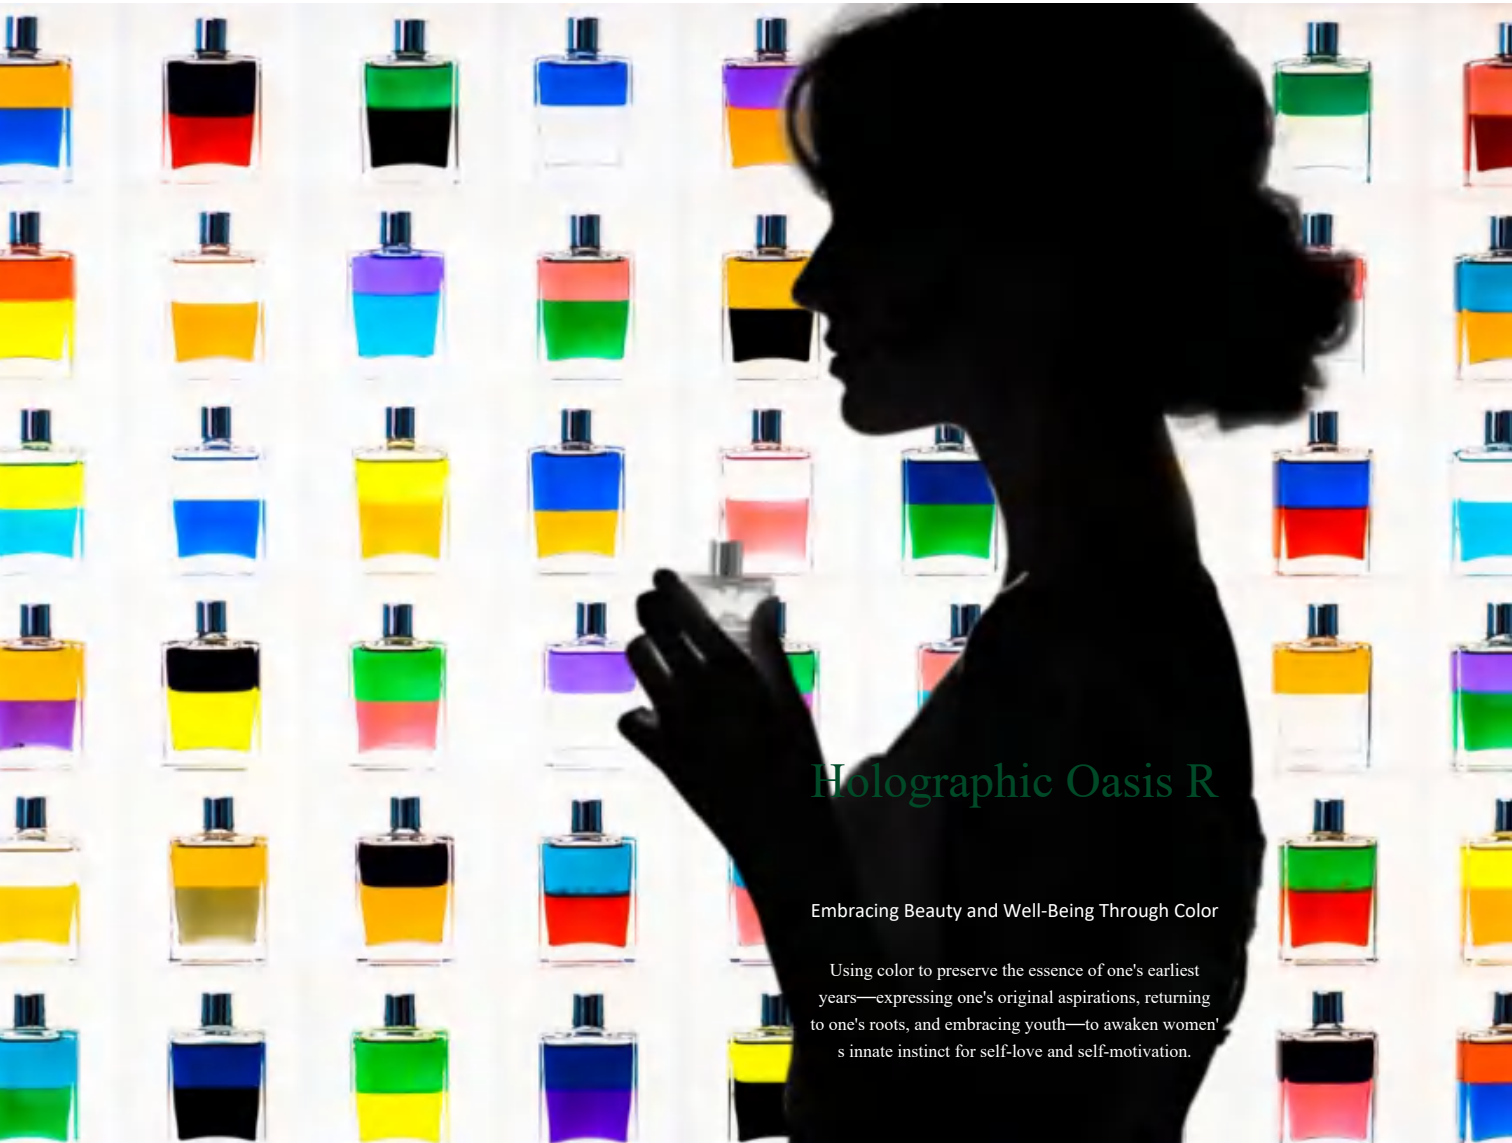

Psychological Therapy

MIND THERAPY

The fundamental purpose of beauty or wellness services is to promote relaxation for both body and mind. A beauty salon or wellness center requires three essential components: hydrotherapy, tactile therapy, and psychological therapy. Hydrotherapy and tactile therapy are common service modalities in China; however, establishments offering psychological therapy services remain virtually nonexistent in the current market. To deliver a full-day urban spa experience (DAY SPA), psychological therapy must be integrated. In many international establishments, color-based therapy has already been adopted, leveraging the energy of specific colors to provide psychological benefits to clients.

Organic-Patent-Protected Ingredients

South Korea's skincare industry boasts a long history, yet it remains remarkably understated—much like an expert dedicated to academic research, focusing on proprietary ingredients, organic formulations, and rigorous certifications. For many years, South Korea's R&D teams have specialized in natural therapies, conducting meticulous research to provide you with professional skincare products.

Holographic Oasis
Robust R&D Team

After years of scientific research, the company has now evolved into a large professional R&D team composed of physicians, pharmacists, chemists, biologists, physiotherapists and naturopathic experts, engineers, and painters. By prioritizing teamwork, the company has integrated traditional Chinese medicine and Indian chakra concepts with the most advanced scientific methodologies of today, developing a diverse range of product lines, unlocking boundless possibilities, and ultimately evolving into the current "Holistic Oasis" high-tech brand.

Colorful Essential Oils = Color wavelengths + Traditional Chinese herbal formula combinations + Therapeutic modalities (olfactory + visual + tactile)

* The Power of Color

The Colors Composed of Various Wavelengths of Light That Sustains Life, and the Energy They Embody.

By transmitting the wavelength energy of the color to the body and mind through visual perception, touch, or other methods, the body and mind are brought into a state of balanced self-being—encompassing health, symptoms, emotions, and sensations.

* Prescription Combination

Integrate Various Premium Massage Essential Oils—arranged According to the Traditional Chinese Medicine Principle of "commander, Minister, Assistant, and Envoy"—into Colorful Light Waves.

Utilizing a resonance amplification device to enhance the light energy value of color energy enables the body to absorb this energy more efficiently, thereby boosting the product's efficacy and allowing users to experience the superior benefits of color energy.

* The Healing Power of Fragrance

By Stimulating the Senses of Sight, Smell, and Touch, One Can Access the Color Energy of Light's Power and Transmit Beneficial Energy to Both Body and Mind.

(Three ways to experience color, fragrance, and direct application to the body)
Not only does it stimulate the body, but it also gently and profoundly engages the emotions and the subconscious, illuminating both body and mind with beneficial light. This approach helps foster a beautiful and healthy life.
