"I see each project as an opportunity to create a building that suits its owners, fits its site and works well with the surrounding environment."

With more than 35 years as a building designer and registered builder I have a unique perspective on the integration of the performance, function, art and costs of a building. I offer a full design and documentation service, and for those clients wanting my involvement in the building of their home I can project manage the construction or my building company can handle the whole project. We only handle a small number of projects at any one time, and this limited construction schedule allows us to maintain the high standards of finish our clients are looking for.
